

UNIVIE Teaching Award<sup>2022</sup>

Category "Promoting Activation and Course Completion"

Category description

Awards are given to courses whose conception and implementation also take into account the aspect of course completion. They focus on continuous co-learning, motivating self-activation and employing best practices for exam/final preparation of the students (taking into account the current Covid 19 situation, if applicable).

Criteria

For submissions under the category "Promoting activation and course completion ", the following criteria will be used in the selection process:

- Teacher promotes continuous, competency-oriented co-learning methods through interactive forms of teaching/learning (analogue and/or digital).
- Teaching design as well as effective teaching/learning materials allow and promote sound and timely student preparation for examinations and graduation.
- Teacher strives to motivate students and integrate them into the teaching/learning process (e.g. by promoting learning communities, providing feedback on students' intermediate performance, etc.).
- Completion rate of students in the course is high.
